The Dewey Testimonial. The entertainment to be given at the Grand Opera House next Friday night for the benefit of the Dewey home fund promises to be an unusually interesting affair. Mr. J. Edwin Brown, who has had charge of all the arrangements, is confident that it will be patronized by the members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps, many army and navy officials and possibly by the President. The program will be one of the finest ever presented, and all the arrangements are nearly completed. The chorus that will sing the paean of praise, com-posed by Mr. Wm. H. Santelmann, will be under the direction of Mr. Percy A. Foster. An orchestra of twenty-five ladies will be led by Mr. Ernest Lent, the Marine Band Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Santelmann, will participate, there will be a vitagraph exhibition of the battle of Manila, the individual numbers will include Miss Mary Helen Howe, soprano; Miss Mae Rogers, soprano; Miss Marie Howe, danseuse; the Parques and Mr. W. H. Conley and Rev. Father Stafford will deliver a eulogy upon Admiral Dewey.

His Reception Was Chilling. He had been at the White House every day for a week to see the President, had failed, and was on hand again today. He sat around until he was notified that the As he started out he began sneezing and had a violent round. "Caught cold?" he was asked. "Yes," he replied between sneezes. "My reception here has been too icy for my warm nature." Then he went out into the damp air to speculate over his failure to see the President.

Dark, murky weather and wet grounds revented the Senators playing in Philadelphia Saturday afternoon, and Manager Ir-win and his men took an early train for this city, arriving home about 10 o'clock. The Phillies arrived in Washington this morning and, weather permitting, will try to take another ball from the Senators today. The Quakers have been quite successful in this respect, winning all the games they have played with the locals so far this season. Gus Weyhing was scheduled to pitch Saturday and will probably go in today. Wiley Platt, the great left-hander, will more than likely be on the rubber for the visitors. The eastern and western clubs have now had a turn-about in playing a series at home and abroad, and the records place the latter in a very poor light. In fact, it is difficult to record a season wherein the western clubs made such a poor showing against the east, while in the east the western clubs played sixty-two games and of ern clubs played sixty-two games, and of this number only nineteen went to their credit as victories. On their own grounds the westerners were not a bit better, as the easterners on their first trip won thirty-four games and left the former only eightfour games and left the former only eighteen games to crow over, in the two series of 114 games the east securing 77 victories against 37 for their neighbors. Each section will visit the other four times during the season, and unless the western boys take on a decided brace the outlook is decidedly low.

Below will be found a table showing the number of games won and lost by each team during the intersection series in the east, which closed last week, together with good work of the Washington club against the St. Louis and Chicago clubs placed them 37 per cent to the good, and their "nightmare" games with the Pittsburgs are the only unpleasant recollections of the series between the east and west. Manager Hanlon's great team went down the line in royal style, sweeping everything before it, and the steady bean-aters did almost as

When the figures of the two intersection series are combined the record looks still better for the eastern clubs, in fact, so good that the unitiated would imagine all the poor clubs in the league were from the west. The number of games won and lost by each club in the intersection series are given as follows: given as follows:

Washington... 12 New York.... 12 Philadelphia... 8 Brooklyn, Boston and Baltimore, the three "B's," head the list, but the Senators are not far away, their good work the past couple of weeks creating havoc among the western clubs with pennant aspirations. Unless the western clubs take a decided brace—a thing that is very probable—the eastern clubs will fight it out among them-salves as to which one shell have the honor selves as to which one shall have the honor of being the champion of '99. St. Louis, Cincinnati and Chicago are almost certain to brace up and play good ball, but whether they will be able to get into the leaders' class with Brooklyn and Boston is a ques-tion. The standing of the Cincinnati club is to be deplored, as John T. Brush is really a lover of the national game and is willing o put forward his best efforts, in the way money and time, to land a winner in the queen city. But everything has been breaking badly for the western magnate so far this season, his pitching staff turning out poorly, when, on paper, it looks to be the finest in the league. But matters are bound to take a brace with "Buck" Ewing and his braves and then the championable and his braves, and then the championship race will be decidedly more interesting.

This week the two sections will play

among themselves, but next Sunday the intersection battle reopens, and a different story may perhaps be told at the conclusion of the series.

AN UNUSUAL EXHIBITION. Cincinnati Plays Louisville and Cleveland on the Same Afternoon.

An unusual attraction was presented at Cincinnati yesterday in the base ball line, the home club playing both the Louisville and Cleveland clubs one after the other and winning both games. In the first contest Louisville suffered defeat, the Reds winning by the score of 8 to 2. In the second game Cleveland was still easier for the home club, the score being 10 to 1 in their favor. Wagner's batting was the feature of the Louisville game, while the perfect fielding of the Reds in the Cleveland contest caused considerable applause. Following are the

Irwin Wants Coughlin and Patten. pecial Dispatch to The Evening Star. WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 12.-Arthur

Irwin of the Washington club has made Wilkesbarre an offer for Pitcher Patten, the south-paw, who has done splendid work for Wilkesbarre, and Third Baseman Coughlin. Irwin saw the owners of the team at Allentown Saturday, but they are not disposed to sell. They have not yet given a decided answer, however.

George Decker has been released by the Louisvilles and Catcher Zimmer signed. Manager McGraw is after a new infielder in the person of Second Baseman Rothermel of the Rock Island team. He was recommended to McGraw by Tim O'Rourke, the ex-Senatorial third baseman, and will be used as a utility man when Magoon returns to the game at short, Keister going to second. Rothermel is considered the best second baseman in the Western Agge. best second baseman in the Western Association. Another Cincinnati pitcher has Another Cincinnati pitcher has been brought up with a round turn. This time it is "Pink" Hawley, and he has been laid off without pay until he gets into condition and understands the balk rule. Jack Taylor is still out in the cold and the Reds' pitching staff is about the proper size. Hawley has made four balks this season, and Manager Ewing thought it was time to bring the "Pink" boy to his senses.

The Senators will furnish plenty of excitement this week. Wednesday they begin a series with the Baltimores at National Park; go over to Baitimore Thursday; play Friday with the same club in this city, and then go west for the open-ing game in St. Louis Sunday. Should the Senators be able to make a good showing against the birds in the coming series all their past bad deeds will be forgiven by the local enthusiasts.

The Columbia has a long, tapering bow, rounding up gradually from the keel, and an extremely sharp point at the stem. The stern overhang is longer and flatter than was Defender's, and, in fact, the entire hull has the appearance of having a much flatter floor. Then the underbody is con-siderably shorter at the foot than was that of Defender, and the lead keel is said to be cast so that it gradually rounds out from a foot in thickness to three feet from a foot in thickness to three feet through at its widest part.

Nobody connected with the Columbia would say a word about her build, but a resident of Bristol gives the following data: She is 132 feet 8 inches over all; beam, 24 feet 2½ inches; from top of 10-inch crown deck to the base of the lead keel, about 25 feet; keel, 29 feet long at the foot, and containing 95 tons of lead. other boys and severely injured several other persons. The photographer had se-lected the top of a shed crowded with boys. In pouring out the flashlight powder a train must have been left connecting the large can of explosive with the small quantity on the camera. The shed collapsed with the terrific explosion. Policemen pulled the injured from the wreck and carried them into the Herreshoff shops. San Souci died shortly after at his home. On boy is probably fatally hurt and six others seriously wounded. A tin reflector was blown to atoms and many pieces were picked from the wounds of the injured.

DENIES WRITING IT. illeged Letter of Fitzsimmons Writ ten Before the Fight. Pugilistic circles are much stirred up over leged to have been sent by Fitzsimmons to one Leonard Shilly of Cincinnati: "Dear Sir: Knowing you to have been an ardent admirer of mine in the past, thinking that you probably will have confidence in my ability as a pugilist, I write to you, as I am doing to all of my close friends, in the publication of the following letter alas I am doing to all of my close friends, in order that their faith in me be not abused. You, no doubt, are well aware of the fact that I am getting along in years, and have for a long time been living a life of ease and quiet, and, as the saying is, have not kept up with the times.

"My opponent, Mr. Jeffries, I must admit, is without a peer in our profession today, and I would consider it no disgrace to meet defeat at his hands. He has youth, science, strength and courage, and, in my opinion, should have no trouble to defend the thie (should he gain it) from any man of the present time. You must understand that I say this confidentially, and would, of course, not make public a statement of this kind, and I further am sure that you would not make use of this unless it be for your individual benefit. My object in writing this letter is: You may be a betting man, and, like a great many more, may have a stubborn idea that I am invincible. If such be the case you might bet recklessly. I would advise you to be careful and not bet on general results. I will certainly do my best, and hope to gain the victory. I feel safe in saying that I will remain five or ten rounds, and if my usual good luck does not desert me I will certainly win the fight. Hoping that you will appreciate my letter of caution, I remain, "Your sincere friend, "ROBERT FITZSIMMONS."

"I never wrote such a letter." said Fitz-

"Your sincere friend,

"ROBERT FITZSIMMONS."

"I never wrote such a letter," said Fitzsimmons when asked about the letter. "I don't know Shilly. Who is he, anyhow? You say he is connected with the sheriff's office at Cincinnati. Well, if he is, I know nothing about the sheriff or him. I never wrote such a letter.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," continued Fitzsimmons. "In order to show the public that I never wrote such a letter to Leonard Shilly or any other person, I'll give $2,500 to the person who produces such a document, and, moreover, if any one believes that he has such a letter I will pay his expenses from wherever he resides to this city and make him a present of $250, providing that such a communication can be produced. Of course, the letter may be a forgery, if such a letter exists, but I want to be satisfied as to its existence, and I also want the public to be satisfied that I never wrote it, nor had it written for me."

Mrs. Fitzsimmons, who was present, said that she was positive that her husband had never written such a letter.

"Bob was more than confident of siccess, and all those who saw the fight mist certainly agree with me in saying that he did his utmost to retain the champlonship. He had no doubts as to his ability to defeat Jeffries, and although he was besten I am not quite satisfied that he cannot reverse the order of things."

EXCELLENT SPEED MADE,

Shamrock to Be Launched in July. LONDON, June 12.—It is said the America's cup challenger Shamrock will not be launched until the beginning of July, the progress of work on her being retarded by the fact that her designer, W. Fife, jr., is uffering from influence. According to estimate, the contest, from first to last, will cost Sir Thomas Lipton about $400,000.

Captain Hogarth and the crew of the Shamrock are preparing the rigging of the yacht.

Sir Thomas Lipton has invited Lady Russell of Killowen, wife of the lord chief justice of England, to christen the Sham-New 200-Mile Road Record

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12 .- E. O. Kragnoss of the Olympic Club wheelmen has broken the American 200-mile road record by making a double century around San Francisco in eleven hours and thirty-seven minutes. This is two hours and thirty-seven minutes ahead of the coast record, and is said to be four minutes better than is credited to any rider in this country.
